

California Conservation Corps

35 years of "Hard work, low pay, miserable conditions and more ..."

Building trails in the redwoods

Fighting wildfires

Improving salmon and steelhead habitat

Felling dead trees to reduce fire threat & preserve forest health

Responding to floods, earthquakes and other emergencies

Constructing granite trails to increase public access

Building ADA
boardwalks

Reducing energy use

Planting trees in urban parks and neighborhoods

Working in forests—veterans crews

- Located statewide—27 locations, both residential and nonresidential programs
- Since 1976, 115,000 corpsmembers hired
- Since 1976, more than 67 million hours of work throughout California
- 900+ projects every year
- One of out of every 5 CCC work hours devoted to disaster response